ABOUT CHARITIES AID FOUNDATION (CAF) INDIA

Established in 1998, we are a not-for-profit organisation working to build a society motivated to give ever more effectively and help transform lives, and communities. In order to achieve this vision, CAF India has been actively engaged with stakeholders across a broad spectrum of areas. We are a member of the CAF Global Alliance that has nine offices internationally and distributes funds to over 100 countries across the world.

CAF India’s wide range of CSR and philanthropic solutions include delivering on the social development commitments of partners through advisory support, strategy development, grant & programme management, employee giving, capacity building, disaster response, monitoring & evaluation, employee engagement, volunteering and communication advocacy, all tailored to build a more equitable and sustainable society.

While we work with corporates to deliver on their CSR commitments, we also ensure a solid ground for implementation of the same through our NGO partners. We have a proven track record of conducting due diligence of NGOs in order to foster trust in the sector. Through our capacity building programme, we guide them on the important aspects of management and governance, enabling them to help build their efficiency in project management and delivery. We consistently innovate to mobilise resources for the NGO sector to nurture the culture of giving in the country.

To enable individual donors to support the causes they care for, we have launched an innovative online giving platform called Give4Good which helps users to give and streamline their donations to CAF India-validated NGOs. We have more than 2,00,000 individual donors supporting various causes. Volunteering is also an important feature that this platform provides and we are currently managing more than 1.13 crore pledged hours.

Our deep understanding of the philanthropic sector build over 18 years has helped us bring out thought-provoking insights in the research space. The CAF World Giving Index which is launched annually is renowned as the leading comparative measure of generosity across the globe. CAF India also released a research report on ‘Online Giving in India’ which represents a critical first step to collecting information on digital trends and practices in the sector.

As a not-for-profit organisation, making an impact in the charitable sector is what drives us. Together with corporates, NGO partners, government and individual donors, we aim to transform society for the better.
Chairperson’s Message

Promoting the culture of giving is central to CAF India’s work and I am proud to say that we are growing in strength to create a more equitable and sustainable society.

The year 2015-16 has been very fruitful with lakhs of people benefitting through CAF India’s interventions on the ground. This was made possible by the generous support of our corporate partners, individual donors and employees from various organisations. We also responded to major disasters that affected millions of lives last year. The overwhelming response to Tamil Nadu floods and Himalayan earthquake from citizens across the country was truly inspiring as it reinforced trust in humanity.

Over the years, we have been trying to engage all stakeholders – corporates, individuals, the government and the not-for-profit sector, to help build a society motivated to give and transform the lives of the people who need it the most. We are grateful to all our donors and stakeholders for sharing the passion and vision.

India is witnessing rapid economic growth. The country is a ‘bright spot’ amidst the global economic turmoil. Yet, India still has an uphill task to reduce the gap between the rich and the poor. I am optimistic that India will not only make a mark as an economic superpower, but also grow as one of the most generous nations globally. It gives me immense pleasure to witness how the CAF India team, led by CEO, Meenakshi Batra, has scaled up over the years to create an impact on the society. I thank all our donors for their very generous contributions and hope that you will continue to support us in the years to come.

India is riding the crest of positive change in the development sector. The corporate world has gone beyond the ‘business as usual’ way of doing things and embraced social responsibilities that have the potential to make a lasting impact on society.

We have strengthened our position as one of the leading voices in the social sector – bringing out some thought-provoking insights in the CSR and philanthropic space. CAF’s Global Giving Index, which was covered widely in the media, revealed that India has the largest number of givers in the world. CAF India also released a report on ‘Online Giving in India’, which focused on the online giving landscape in the development sector, a critical first step to collecting information on digital trends and practices.

We are thankful to individual and corporate partners who have entrusted us with the responsibility to make a positive difference in the lives of the underprivileged. We have strengthened our capacities by deploying development sector best practices to keep pace with the changing dynamics in order to deliver impactful results on the ground.

Since the Corporate Social Responsibility Act was introduced in 2014, companies, not-for-profit and the government have made deep inroads to bridge the gap between the rich and the poor. In fact, we have been able to raise more than 225 crores for various social causes that we support. Our robust NGO due diligence process has ensured high standards of accountability enabling us to effectively implement and deliver on diverse intervention areas. Society has begun reaping the reward from our employee giving programme – Give As You Earn, which has seen an increasing number of employees from various corporate organisations contributing and volunteering for various causes close to their heart.

I would like to thank our board members who have guided us and provided invaluable inputs that has helped us to gradually emerge as a thought leader in the country. I thank our donors who have been generously supporting causes that we work on. This ‘giving’ journey is memorable because you have walked this journey with us. We look forward to continued support from our well-wishers, in order to achieve the larger goal of improving lives and benefitting communities in India.

OVERVIEW AND MILESTONES 2015-2016

Innovative and sustainable programs were at the core of our interventions throughout the year 2015-16. We played an integral role in connecting and engaging with our corporate partners, across varied thematic areas. Through effective management and technical support to CSR interventions of a growing number of corporate partners, the year witnessed significant contributions in addressing critical development causes and making a meaningful impact.

We are growing at a brisk pace to deliver on development agendas and emerging as one of the leading voices in the CSR space. From managing just 35 CSR projects in 2014-15, we have grown to handling more than 120 CSR projects in 2015-16.

Some of the key highlights of the year includes effective implementation of Right to Sanitation intervention across states, to ensure construction, renovation, upkeep of sanitation facilities and WASH education covering school, household and community toilets. Under the health initiatives, strengthening nutrition security of children, provision of primary health services in remote and inaccessible areas and facilitating health awareness interventions were accomplishments.

Ensuring Right to Education to a large number of marginalised and vulnerable children across states was another important thrust area of the year. The holistic educational support included provision of scholarship support, mainstreaming out of school children, use of technology and e-learning opportunities, strengthening libraries and resource centres, facilitating teacher training and enhancing students, community and parents engagements.

Sustainable livelihood and skill development support on a range of skill-based programmes was provided to marginalised individuals, in urban as well as rural areas, with facilitation of linkage of the skilled workforce to sustainable livelihood opportunities. Environment was another important area with extensive work on access to safe drinking water in schools and communities, water conservation and water recharge programmes.

Another unique intervention of the year was facilitating strategic and multi-year corporate giving for integrated and sustainable village level development, with active community participation and multi-stakeholder engagement. It included facilitating integrated village development models in select villages across India.

Under our disaster relief and rehabilitation portfolio, we ensured effective, timely and sustainable disaster response for affected villages in J&K, Nepal and Tamil Nadu. As part of our Himalayan Earthquake response, we helped enhance skill set of quake-affected bamboo artisans in Bihar and rebuild a school for the affected community in Nepal. Indian Football Captain Sunil Chhetri came forward to support our Himalayan Earthquake campaign while ace badminton star Saina Nehwal lent her support during our Tamil Nadu flood appeal.

During the year our workplace giving programme Give As You Earn has received increased support from close to 20000 employees, benefitting more than 200 NGO partners in 15 thematic areas across various states in the country. In order to make workplace giving more convenient, we have now built an online platform called Give4Good that enables employees to donate with the click of a button.

We also continued to strengthen our NGO validation unit to ensure more credibility and accountability in the sector. In 2015-16 alone, we validated close to 200 NGOs working on various causes, which is more than 100 % growth as compared to 2014-15. We have also been able to deepen our engagement with NGO partners through capacity-building workshops and advisory support.

Last year we also launched our award winning campaign Click2Clean with a mission to clean 100 littered sites in Delhi & NCR through collective action by citizens, governments and the private sector. This initiative received encouraging response from both individuals and corporate partners.

As we cross milestones in our journey, helping the society become more sustainable is at the core of what we strive for at CAF India. If 2015-16 was a landmark year, we hope 2016-2017 will be even better and we can touch more lives through our impactful programmes.

SUCCESS STORIES FROM THE GROUND

At every step of our journey, it is the stories of hope, of lives changing for the better that keeps us motivated to continue on our inspired path. When we look back, we feel that the year gone by has been rewarding in many ways. Here are some of the stories that constantly remind us why our efforts are worth it.

THE SOUND OF HOPE

It was Mandira’s grandmother from Pondua, West Bengal who first observed that there was something amiss with the child when she was barely five months old. She noticed that Mandira was not reacting to loud noises when she was asleep, which began to worry the grandmother. However, it took the rest of the family a longer time to acknowledge this problem.

When Mandira was nine months old, she had a bout of bronchitis and her grandmother took her to a child specialist. She tried to bring it to the doctor’s attention that Mandira was not responding to sound, but the doctor ignored the condition and treated only the bronchitis. However, the grandmother was insistent and a few months later she took the child to the doctor again who then referred her to a testing centre. At the centre, the doctors found that Mandira’s mother had German Measles while she was pregnant, which caused a hearing impairment in the child when in her mother’s womb.

The grandmother went through a long drawn process of acquiring a hearing-aid for the child, which involved getting attestations from local MPs, MLAs and the Block Development Officer. She fought through the red tape and finally got a hearing-aid for her granddaughter.

Mandira was put into a school and taught to speak, but because of lack of proper training for the deaf, she could not learn properly. Using a hearing-aid wasn’t enough for Mandira. This is when the grandmother heard about Sadhan Resource Centre run by CAF India’s partner, Vaani. She has been taking seven-year-old Mandira to the centre for six months now.

Even in this short duration, Mandira has undergone a lot of change. She is able to recognise and identify objects and ask for her favourite goodies like chocolates and toffees. She even goes to the shop on her own to buy vegetables and fruits. She is still shy but her grandmother is certain that if she continues to learn at the Sadhan Resource Centre, she will soon become more confident and independent.

IMPROVED SCHOOL FACILITIES GOT BASVARAJ HIS FRIENDS BACK

Eleven-year-old Basvaraj from the Government Primary School of Korkiholi reflects vividly the deplorable state of his school a year back. The school lacked basic clean drinking water, its premises were filthy and there were no plants. Moreover, there were no sports kits and other playing material. As a result, students showed little interest in attending school.

Basvaraj, who has visited schools in the city, longed to enjoy the same facilities. He dreamt of a day when he and his friends could enjoy study and playing sports in their school playground, including clean drinking water, a well-stocked library and separate toilets.

Under the Support my School campaign supported by Coca Cola and NDTV, Basvaraj’s school went through a transformation. The quality of drinking water on the premises has improved. The school now has a variety of play materials. Basvaraj tells us that the outcome of improved school facilities has been that his friends who had dropped out of school have joined back. Incidences of children falling ill due to the dirty drinking water and unhygienic toilets have reduced. He also shares that they get to play with a variety of sports materials in the newly landscaped ground. These facilities are attracting new students. Parents are now bringing their children to the government school instead of sending them to private schools. Other communities are appreciating this ‘model school’, and intending to make other schools like it.

This is not the story of only one boy but of several other children in the village, whose interest in education has returned.
STRATEGIC GIVING CAMPAIGNS

HIMALAYAN EARTHQUAKE RESPONSE

The massive earthquake that hit Nepal and parts of Northern India killed more than 8,000 people in April 2015. CAF India was quick to respond with a disaster response strategy, executed with the help of our implementing partners. We launched the ‘Stand With Nepal’ campaign to mobilise resources for the affected people and many donors generously supported our initiative. Backed by a robust digital outreach and an appeal on radio channels, the campaign managed to raise more than INR 25 lakhs. Indian Football Captain Sunil Chhetri lent support to our campaign. One year down the line, we have been able to make a positive difference to the lives of many people who needed help. In Saharsa district of Bihar, we helped enhance skill-set and knowledge of quake-affected bamboo artisans of 10 hamlets, training bamboo masons, installed water filters, distributed grain bins, build capacities of women to run grain banks to ensure food security during disasters. In Nepal, we helped rebuild a school for the affected community. The Himalayan Earthquake Response campaign won the Best Cause Marketing campaign in the NGO sector at the CMO Asia event, which is a prestigious forum of business leaders across the country.

TAMIL NADU FLOOD RELIEF

We stood in solidarity with the affected people of Tamil Nadu during the disastrous floods in 2015. We were able to benefit more than 1,00,000 individuals and 20,000 families through our relief and rehabilitation work on the ground. This included providing more than 1,500 food baskets, close to 500 temporary shelters, repair and renovation of over 1,000 houses and provision of livelihood opportunities to over 10,000 individuals and farmers. The enthusiasm and generosity with which our corporate partners and people across the country came forward to support our appeal for flood victims was truly inspiring. India’s top badminton star, Saina Nehwal lent support for a cause, which resulted in greater awareness and funds for the disaster victims.

CLICK2CLEAN

We launched the Click2Clean campaign in October 2015 with an aim to convert cities into litter-free zones. The goal of this campaign was to identify and clean 100 sites in Delhi NCR, raise public awareness, enhance citizen participation and promote partnerships among various stakeholders. The campaign is aimed at strengthening our commitment towards Government of India’s Swachh Bharat Mission. The first site to be identified under this campaign was the Sadar Bazaar area in Old Gurgaon. The Gurgaon Municipality supported this noble initiative. Sessions on cleanliness were held for students of government schools, dustbins were installed, employee engagement activities were undertaken and local citizens also participated in the cleanliness drive. The change we are witnessing on the ground is encouraging and we hope to continue to mobilise support in the years to come through the Click2Clean initiative.

COCA COLA NDTV SUPPORT MY SCHOOL

Our strategic alliance with the Coca-Cola NDTV Support My School (SMS) campaign goes back to 2010 when we conceived this idea to change the way school managements, students and parents view sanitation in schools. After carrying out a nationwide assessment, CAF India identified serious gaps in water and sanitation systems, budgetary provisions and children’s hygiene practices. Since 2011 when the SMS project kick started, more than 230 schools in India have witnessed the building of toilets, greater access to water and sanitation, improved sports facilities, environmental upkeep and setting up of rainwater harvesting systems.

In 2015, former Indian cricket captain, Sourav Ganguly and Bollywood star, Ranveer Singh came together to support this campaign in a six-hour telethon, which is helping revitalise 1,000 schools across 23 states and benefit over 3,00,000 lakh students in rural and sub-urban India. As one of the strategic managing partners, CAF India also played a key role in spreading the message cleanliness to encourage a holistic learning environment. The campaign has ignited a spirit of partnership in resolving this pressing issue of lack of sanitation, water and poor maintenance of schools.

NDTV DETTOL BANEKA SWACHH INDIA

We have reached many important milestones in the NDTV Dettol Baneha Swachh India programme. Apart from ensuring that Kurka village in Uttar Pradesh is now an open defecation-free village, we have been involved in building sanitation infrastructure across Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Maharashtra, Jharkhand and Tamil Nadu. Toilets, urinals and wash basins have been set up, in addition to installation of a system to treat solid and water waste, DRRD developed bio-digesters, sanitary napkin incinerators and enviro loo technologies from South Africa.

In a 12-hour cleanathon that concluded on 17 January, people from across the country pledged 1.13 crore volunteering hours to clean up India. The focus of the campaign this season is to bring about positive changes in the behaviour of communities. In particular, school-going children are being taught about the importance of proper hygiene and sanitation habits.

As the official managing partner of this campaign, CAF India is managing the volunteering hours across the country, offering close to 200 corporate houses a convenient way to manage their volunteering time in order to make a significant impact. To help facilitate this volunteering, we have developed an online volunteering tool on our Give4Good platform (Give4Good.org.in).

With citizens’ participation being the core of the initiative, an interactive questionnaire was developed for citizens of Gurgaon to fill up, consisting of open and closed ended question followed by relevant probing queries. The questionnaire was designed to gather respondents’ background information (i.e. age, education, family type, size) current waste scenario in the area, gauge perception of citizens on waste management, cleanliness, the preferred medium of communication for spreading Information in the Sadar Bazaar area.

RESEARCH AND THOUGHT LEADERSHIP

Our unparalleled experience in the not-for-profit sector, our expertise in conducting research and formulating research methodologies in the sector is par excellence. Our deep understanding of the philanthropic sector has helped us bring out thought-provoking insights in this space, which is a culmination of thorough analysis and multi-stakeholder engagement.

COLLECTIVE RESEARCH ON CORPORATE FOUNDATIONS FOR SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT

In an attempt to understand the role of Corporate Foundations in the development sector following the amendment of Companies Act, 2013 and CSR investments, CAF India in partnership with organisations like Indian Institute of Corporate Affairs (IICA), National Foundation for India and others conducted a study on Corporate Foundations (CFs) revolving around their incorporation, identity, operational challenges and resources. Top 300 listed companies were analysed in the study titled ‘Corporate Foundations – An emerging development paradigm’. To the forefront the core focus areas of CFs emerged in promoting Education, Health and Livelihood. While companies lent credibility to CFs, the former benefitted from the sensitive and socially-aware image that was created through their association.

Although their identity was linked to their company, the foundations found its challenging at times to be seen by the community merely as an extension of the company. The research report was launched on 29 May, 2015.

INDIA HAS THE GREATEST NUMBER OF GIVERS: CAF WORLD GIVING INDEX 2015

The CAF World Giving Index is known around the world as the leading comparative measure of generosity across the globe. By measuring the three acts that constitute generosity, i.e., giving money, giving time and helping a stranger; it offers a simple yet a universally acknowledged picture of generosity across the globe.

The World Giving Index report is based on more than a million interviews conducted by Gallup since 2005/06, as part of their World Poll survey involving 135 countries.

This report shows that while at a global level, people have become increasingly likely to donate money to a charity or help a stranger than volunteering their time, Myanmar ranked highest in the list followed by The United States of America and New Zealand respectively. India was ranked at 106th spot in the World Giving Index Report.

The report includes:
- Analysis of levels of giving worldwide.
- An index of all countries ranked by their average on the three parameters of giving.
- Insight into fluctuations in the three giving parameters.
- Recommendations for what governments around the world can do to enhance giving.

CAF INDIA RELEASES ‘ONLINE GIVING IN INDIA’ RESEARCH REPORT

Over the recent decades, the giving landscape has undergone great change. Online donations have gradually paved their way into the giving scenario and have become an intrinsic part of the life-changing work done by NGOs. The digital sphere now offers an additional platform to the NGO sector for not only increasing engagement with potential donors but also securing funds strategically.

This report, envisaged as a pilot study, focusing on the online giving landscape in India, represents a critical first step to collecting information on digital trends/practices in the sector. As an organisation, CAF India is committed to nurturing the culture of giving and to meet this goal we have devised innovative strategies to enable people to support the causes of their choice. While supporting and advising companies on strategic CSR investments for the last two decades, we have successfully kept our online audiences engaged through new and effective communication approaches.
COMMUNICATIONS AND OUTREACH

CAF India marked its presence in some of the foremost events and forums during the year to share knowledge, experience and best practices in the social development sector.

A power-packed panel of eminent leaders from different sectors showcased World Giving Index 2015 and discussed strategic ways of nurturing the culture of giving in the country during the six-hour live Coca-Cola NDTV Support My School Telethon in November 2015.

To highlight the impact that CSR projects created in the lives of the beneficiaries, CAF India launched the Media Fellowship programme. Since a lot of good work and initiatives go unnoticed in the media ‘noise’, the fellowship programme ensures beneficiary stories from the ground get the attention and eyeballs they deserve. The idea is also to provide a voice to organizations to highlight the social causes that they are working on through their CSR activities. Positive stories covered under the fellowship programme has the potential to motivate society to give more effectively to the causes close to their hearts.

The report titled Online Giving in India, released in September 2015, was envisaged as a pilot study, focusing on the online giving landscape in India, representing a critical first step to collecting information on digital trends/practices in the sector.
